CII Elects Board Members for 2023-2024 - Members Also Approve Policy on Disclosure of Shareholder Proponents

Washington, D.C., March 9, 2023 — Aeisha Mastagni, portfolio manager at the California State Teachers’ Retirement System, was elected board chair of the Council of Institutional Investors March 6. She succeeds Scott Zdrazil, who chaired the board for the past two years.

The directors newly elected to the board for 2023-2024 are: Joseph Aguilar, CIO for Illinois State Treasurer Michael Frerichs; Tracy Harris, a trustee of the District of Columbia Retirement Board; Margaret Madden, senior VP and corporate secretary at Pfizer; and Jennifer O’Dell, assistant director of corporate affairs for the Laborers’ International Union of North America.

Other board officers for 2023-24 are Michael McCauley and Tejal Patel, co-chairs; Katy Hoffman, treasurer; and Michael Pryce Jones, secretary.
Also on March 6, CII’s U.S. Asset Owner members approved a new policy that urges public companies to include the names of proponents in proxy statements. Although most companies disclose this information, some do not, as current SEC rules only require companies to provide the names to shareholders upon request. Not including a proponents’ identity can make it difficult for other investors to engage with the proponent.

CII has engaged with SEC representatives on the potential for a rulemaking fix. Investors’ interest in the identify of proponents also reflects the growing number of proposals filed by interest groups. Shareholders casting proxy ballots are especially interested in monitoring for instances where a proposal’s substance has a tenuous or limited connection to its proponent’s main policy objectives.
